Sansom seeks revenge

★ ENGLAND must win their game against Rumania to restore public confidence in the team, says Arsenal's Kenny Sansom. "We were as disappointed as anyone about the Spain defeat, but it's made us determined to go out and show people that we can play," said Kenny. "It's our most important game for a long time and there's no doubt we've got to win." "We don't just want to get to Spain — we want to go there as champions of our group." Kenny has special reason for wanting to do well against the Rumanians because he was involved in a controversial penalty incident which gave the East Europeans a 2-1 victory in Bucharest.

"The penalty was very unfair because I never touched their forward Zoltan Cristan — he just dived in the box," said Kenny.

"I'll be on my guard against him this time and make sure there's no repeat of that incident."

"We're all very confident we can beat the Rumanians. We've just got to close them down and not give them a chance to play."

Right: Arsenal's Kenny Sansom — he has special cause to remember the Rumanians.

SPAIN showed the world how to play against England at Wembley.

The way they beat us 2-1 in that fateful friendly last month will have been watched with great interest — and no doubt delight — by the other teams in our World Cup group.

I can just see the Rumanian team manager giving his side their pre-match instructions.

"Close them down, don't let them play it out from the back," he will be telling them.

"Contain them when they come forward and then catch them on the break — quickly and decisively, just like Spain."

OK, so Spain got it right at Wembley. And there's no doubt, that following their example, Rumania will be trying to make life very difficult for us.

They'll pack men behind the ball to frustrate us when we go forward.

But I believe the Rumanians will find a very different England improve

... and the experiments should stop

Says KEVIN KEEGAN

when we meet on April 29.
For a start we have GOT to improve. The only good thing about the Spain game was that it gave us all a good kick up the backside. We were not good enough!

Secondly, I don't think Ron Greenwood will pick the same team in this vital Group Four qualifier.

This game is too important to take chances and I believe Ron will bring back the players who have never let him down.

In a match this crucial you have got to stick with your proven players. What is the point of experimenting at this stage and then England failing to reach the World Cup finals?

'Rumania deserved to win in Bucharest'

That way we all suffer — experienced internationals and newcomers alike. Nobody gets to go to Spain.

The lads who got their chance against Spain deserved to play for England.

Of course, it would have been better for them particularly Osman and Butcher — if we had produced a better team performance. But good players don't turn bad overnight and I'm sure they have great international futures.

Establishing a place in the England team takes time. I know that better than anyone.

I did nothing in my first 10 games and it was a long time

*Right: Match Weekly columnist

he contemplates the game against Rumania.*

before I bridged that yawning gap between club and country.

If I am selected this will be my first game against Rumania.

I was injured when we lost 2-1 in Bucharest last October, but watched the whole game live on television at the BBC studios.

That game proved to us that
Rumania are not a weak side.
They deserved to win and showed they can play a bit.

The thing that impressed me most was the way they play very much as a team, with no real individual stars.

These sort of sides are the hardest to play against. You can shut out one or two stars and stop a side playing, but strength in depth is more difficult to counter.

I played with one of the better known Rumanians, Georgescu, in a European team two seasons ago just after he'd won a Golden Boot award — a trophy given to the player scoring the most League goals in Europe in a season.

He notched 40 that season — so he'll be one to watch if he plays.

JIMMY NICHOLL TIPS AN IRISH WIN BUT WARNS . . .

FULL-BACK Jimmy Nicholl says Northern Ireland will never have a better chance of reaching the World Cup Finals.

On the eve of their crucial clash with Portugal in Belfast, the Manchester United defender says: "If we don't make the finals then we will live to regret it."

"With two to qualify from a group of five and following the point in Scotland we will never have a better chance."

"If we had lost in Scotland I think we would have been doomed, but that draw has lifted the team."

"Three points from the next two games against Portugal and Sweden (away) will set us up."

"After that we have Scotland and Israel at home and we fear no-one in Belfast."

"Scotland are as good as in Spain, so the other place rests between ourselves and Portugal. That's why this week's game is one of our most important for years."

Despite the 1-0 defeat in Lisbon back in November, Jimmy is confident the Irish can gain revenge and boost their chances of reaching the Finals for the first time since 1958.

"We know exactly how they will play. They will be coming for a draw as they did in Scotland and it's going to be a matter of us being patient," he says.

"I would be more worried if they were to come with a more positive attitude. In the second half of the match in Lisbon they looked a very good side going forward.

"With a full house of 35,000 behind us, I think that we will be capable of getting a goal somewhere along the line."

The strength of the Irish team, according to Jimmy, is at the centre of the defence with Southampton's Chris Nicholl and young Leicester defender John O'Neill.

MATCH Weekly previews Scotland's crucial World Cup qualifier against Israel at Hampden Park on Tuesday, April 28, and Northern Ireland's crunch match with Portugal at Windsor Park on Wednesday, April 29.

'Be patient'

"They are a dominating pair, particularly in the air, and one never feels any real pressure when they are around."

"In midfield Martin O'Neill and Sammy McIlroy are creative players and up front young Billy Hamilton is always capable of getting a goal."

"But you never know with us Irish. We often lose matches we expect to win, and win matches we expect to lose!"

Right: Partick Thistle and Scotland goalkeeper Alan Rough: "Victory against Israel is very important."

WORLD CUP '82

'Four enough'—says Rough

GOALKEEPER Alan Rough believes victory for Scotland in their next two World Cup matches could clinch their place in the finals.

Scotland — currently leading their group with six points — are at home to Israel next week and follow that match with another home game against Sweden.

And, says Alan: "Ten or eleven points could well be enough to make sure Scotland qualify."

Alan, who has conceded just one goal in the four qualifying matches Scotland have played so far, admits, therefore, that victory over Israel at Hampden is vital.

"We should be confident having beaten Israel 1-0 away from home, but at the same time we won't be underestimating the opposition."

"They have a lot of very skilful players in their side — not least their wee number nine Damti who was very nippy when we played them over there."

Organised

"Liverpool's Avi Cohen had a good game against us and the midfielder Tabak also played well. They were very well organised."

"We didn't play well in the first half over there but it had been four or five months since we had been together."

"In fact, in most of the games we have played it has taken us 45 minutes to get settled."

"But we have had two victories away from home and that has to be a tremendous bonus."

"We have faltered at home a couple of times —

Scotland's 'keeper believes two wins could clinch Spain trip.

SCOTLAND v ISRAEL

against Portugal and Northern Ireland — but Portugal just came here to defend.

"And although we have scored just three goals so far — I think the answer to that is just finding the right pairing up front — we have only conceded one."

"Celtic's Danny McGrain has been playing exceptionally well and Alex McLeish has also done very well. Their confidence rubs off on me."

"There's no doubt victory in the game against Israel is very important for the sake of our fans as much as the points."

"Northern Ireland play Portugal on the following night and if the Portuguese win it would leave us in a pretty strong position . . . so long as we do the same."

Forest star scored 15 in one game!

COLIN WALSH's record as a goal-scorer since arriving on the senior scene at Nottingham Forest would satisfy the most seasoned midfield player.

But as he revealed, scoring goals is not an entirely fresh experience: "When I was eight years old and living in Hamilton, I once scored 15 in a game for St Anne's cubs.

"We won 22-0 that day and although I've never really been renowned as a goal-scorer since I joined Forest, I'm delighted at the way they've gone in for me."

Boss in boots

WHICH current managers were the most prolific goalscorers in their playing days?

Well, Brian Clough (Forest), Ron Saunders (Aston Villa), Allan Clarke (Leeds United) and Geoff Hurst (Chelsea), all hit over 200 League goals.

TITLE TRIO

IN THE last 20 years only three player-managers have managed to lead their team to title triumphs in any of the League divisions.

They are: Peter Morris (now Peterborough) with Mansfield in 1976-77, Arfon Griffiths with Wrexham in 1977-78 and Graham Turner with Shrewsbury in 1978-79. It doesn't look as though anyone will add his name to that elite band this season either.

PEN PALS

I AM a 13-year-old Brentford supporter who would like a boy pen pal of about the same age who supports a Third Division team.

Sarah Foster, 349 Whitton Dene, Isleworth, Middlesex.

I AM a 16-year-old Rangers supporter who would like a girl pen pal who supports Liverpool. David Wallace, 7 Maxwellton Street, Paisley, Renfrewshire.

A 14-year-old Swindon Town supporter would like a pen pal who supports the same team.

Shaun Ferguson, 124 Hungerdown Lane, Chippenham, Wilts.

A 16-year-old Wolves fan would like a pen pal who supports the club and lives in the Wolverhampton area.

That's the total non-League Burton Albion received when they sold the two players to Brighton and Luton respectively.

MEET the new Kenny Dalglish! This Liverpool fan's former name was Allan O'Hare, but he paid £12 to have it changed by deed poll.

"I want to be known as Kenny from now on. He's magic," says the 19-year-old super fan who works in a furniture factory in Liverpool.

As for the REAL Kenny Dalglish, he says: "I'm amazed ... but flattered." Kenny number two is pictured surrounded by pictures of his famous namesake.

Tommy takes award again

FOR the second time this season, Celtic's flame-haired star Tommy Burns was named our Matchman of the Month.

Here, Tommy receives his February plaque from Celtic's former West Brom 'keeper Peter Latchford.

Arthur's the odd man out

ARTHUR Albiston finds the Manchester United training ground a lonely place when the Home Countries are involved in midweek internationals.

He is the only member of United's current first team squad who has neither won a full international cap or is currently involved in 'B' internationals and Under-21 games, like Gary Bailey and Mike Duxbury.

United's list of internationals resembles a telephone directory . . .

- England — Steve Coppell, Ray Wilkins, Garry Birtles, Gary Bailey ('B' team) and Mike Duxbury (Under-21s)

- Scotland — Martin Buchan, Gordon McQueen, Joe Jordan and Lou Macari

- Northern Ireland — Sammy McIlroy, Tom Sloan and Jimmy Nicholl

- Eire — Kevin Moran, Ashley Grimes and Paddy Roche

- Wales — Mike Thomas

- Yugoslavia — Nikola Jovanovic

Several seasons ago Arthur won a Scottish Under-21 cap, but a full cap has eluded him.

"I think every player sets his sights on playing for his country," says the 23-year-old left back.

"But at the moment I'm just concentrating on doing my best for United. Anything else would be a bonus."

"Of course the better the team does, the more it boosts my chances of international honours."

Right: Arthur Albiston — international misfit.

City's loss

EXPECT several of the top clubs to announce big losses at the end of the season. The question is, will any club approach — or indeed exceed — Manchester City's experience last season? Their £1,663,000 deficit added up to the biggest loss ever sustained by a League club.

BOLTON midfield player Peter Reid is open to offers from any First Division club.

After a season of discontent and despair, he's as keen on a move now as he was at the start of the season when he refused to play for the Second Division club after they had failed to agree a fee with Wolves.

He now admits that his self-imposed exile for almost three months was a mistake, but he has no regrets about his battle to get into the First Division.

"I would do it all again if necessary, only the next time I would continue to play."

"A footballer must keep playing if he can, irrespective of the dispute," says Peter, whose misery this season has been completed by a cartilage operation.

"At the time I was keen to sign for Wolves, but I don't think they would be interested again."

"I would now be content to play for any club in the First Division.

"I am still on a conditional contract with Bolton and I haven't discussed the future with them recently."

"At present I am simply happy to be playing again after spending three months on the sidelines following my operation."

Having played only a handful of games this season, Peter has had little opportunity to parade his talents in the shop window.

So he expects to be lining up in the Bolton side at the start of next season: "I shall have a holiday in the summer and then hope I can get a full season of football."

"Football is a game of ups and downs. I've had my share of downs over the past few seasons, so I am now hoping for a few ups," says Peter.

WHAT POSITION?

by MITCH

Exclusive!

Focus on the crunch League meeting between Aston Villa and Ipswich Town at Villa Park last week. We capture the action in pictures and Villa skipper and Match columnist Dennis Mortimer gives his verdict.

Top: One nil! The ball is on its way from Alan Brazil's foot to beat Jimmy Rimmer in the Villa goal and put Ipswich one up following a mix-up in the home team's defence.

Above left: A hug that says we've done it as Ipswich skipper Mick Mills is lifted off the ground by big centre-back Terry Butcher after the final whistle.

Pictures by Bill Goulden.

We're not finished yet!

TWO mistakes cost us victory over Ipswich... and blew the championship race wide open again.

Our 2-1 defeat at Villa Park means that the title probably won't be decided until the very last game of the season.

And that's why I still believe we can bring the trophy back to Aston Villa for the first time since 1910.

There's still a lot can happen. Ipswich face a hectic run-in and that could be their undoing.

Towards the end of last week's game there were a lot of tired Ipswich legs and I feel some of their players face a long hard battle to keep themselves going.

We faced an uphill struggle from the moment Alan Brazil nipped in to score. A goal in the first five minutes was just the boost Ipswich needed after their FA Cup semi-final defeat against Manchester City.

But apart from our two vital errors I felt we had the better chances to win the match.

If you're chasing the Championship you can't afford to make mistakes like we did.

Insists Aston Villa's DENNIS MORTIMER

It's been an important time for the players at Villa and some of them have never been in this position before. Nerves are bound to get to you.

I told the players in the dressing room after the game that we've got to get our heads down and win our remaining games.

It's important that we all believe we can still win the Championship — any player who doesn't think we can shouldn't be playing.

Vince Hilaire on the Crystal Palace crisis . . .

'IT'S BEEN A NIGHTMARE'

VINCE Hilaire is set to play his last 'home' game for Crystal Palace on Saturday.

And the talented young midfielder will be looking to give the fans something special to remember him by.

Vince — still determined to part company with the club when the season is over — told me:

"A lot of the blame for the club's poor season has been levelled at boardroom and managerial level, but 75 per cent of it must be down to the players.

'I haven't had more than ten good performances.'

"Not too many can claim to have had good seasons — myself included.

"Before the start of this month I don't think I'd put together more than ten good performances.

"The fans at Selhurst Park must have thought I wasn't interested in playing well for the club because I wanted to leave, but that couldn't be further from the truth.

"It's just that my better performances this season seem to have come when we have been away from home.

"If I'm playing, I just hope I can finish our season at home on a good note against Nottingham Forest."

Palace's fate of Second Division football next season was decided as early as April 4 when they lost 1-0 to Manchester United.

'Terry Boyle has come out with most credit.'

Says Vince: "It's been a nightmare — both for the club and me personally.

"I think one of the main reasons why we did so well in the First Division the season before last was that we took a lot of teams by surprise.

"We started off this season playing the same way and our opponents were that little bit wiser."

On top of that Palace have had four different managers this season — Terry Venables, Ernie Walley, Malcolm Allison and now Dario Gradi.

But despite the overall disappointments of the season the team has had its successes.

Says Vince: "Shaun Brooks has had a run in the side and begun to play well. Goalkeeper Paul Barron took a bit of unfair criticism in the early days but he's come good and Paul Hinshelwood always gives 100 per cent."

Above: Terry Boyle — shone this season for Palace.

"But of everyone, I believe Terry Boyle has come out with most credit.

"I've never seen a better header of the ball, he's always given as good as he's got and he's won himself a Welsh cap."

'David Price . . . I never realised how good he was.'

As for his own future Vince says: "My position has never changed since I asked to go on the transfer list.

"I didn't see eye to eye with Ernie Walley over a couple of things but I have nothing against him as a person.

"I don't really mind where I go because you can't pick and choose your clubs, but if it's a First Division club that comes in for me then all well and good."

'Palace can go straight back up.'

As for the future of the club he'll be leaving behind, Vince says:

"They may need a couple of new signings, but I think they can go straight back up to the 'First' next season.

"David Price was a very good signing — I never realised just how good a player he is. And I think Tommy Langley will come good."

IN THE table below Paul Stratton has predicted scorelines for ten of Saturday's matches . . . and the challenge is beat him if you can.

There's a space for your forecasts, one for dad and a column for the actual results.

Award yourself two points for every score you get right and one point if you get a result right (i.e. home win, away win, draw).

'The happiest moment of my career'

BY GLENN HODDLE

WE'RE on our way to Wembley and there's only one word to describe how that feels . . . SUPERB!

Without doubt it was the happiest moment of my career with Spurs when the final whistle blew on our FA Cup semi-final replay with Wolves.

And the scenes that followed were amazing . . .

With 40,000 Spurs fans packed into Highbury the atmosphere was the best I've known — it was like a home game.

And I thought I was going to lose my shirt when the fans invaded the pitch. I never thought I would get to the dressing room.

Back in the dressing room it was happy chaos. Everyone was rushing around congratulating everyone else, the champagne was flowing, we were singing — 'we're on our way to Wembley' and kit man Johnny Wallace got an early bath . . . with his kit on!

We must have gone through about 20 bottles of 'shampoo' (Cockney slang for Champagne) and everyone was 'half-cut' by the time we came out of the bath!

More celebrations and sing-songs followed when we got on the coach and headed for a 'do' at a hotel and the evening ended at Garth Crooks' house in the early hours.

It wasn't until the next morning that it really sank in that Spurs were in the FA Cup final.

The telephone never stopped ringing with messages of congratulations from relatives and friends.

It all seemed so far removed from my personal agony in the first game at Hillsborough, when with just seconds to go that penalty was awarded against me for a tackle on Wolves' Kenny Hibbitt.

That must go down as my worst experience in football.

It drained us when Willie Carr slotted home that last minute penalty.

But in the second-half of extra time there was no way I could see them winning it and everything worked out great for us in the end.

There's no doubt we were dejected after Hillsborough, but we had to put that out of our minds and at Highbury I think we turned on one of our best performances of the season.

Everyone played well. The second half was a delight to play in — I felt I could have played on for hours!

We scored at all the right times. Early on in the game, just before half-time and early in the second half.

Stevie Perryman and Chris Hughton were getting forward from full-back positions, Garth Crooks second goal was a delight and then Ricky Villa hit a screamer from 20-yards — we knew then that we were there, but of course we had to keep playing on.

You have to feel sorry for Wolves — that's three times they've lost in the semi-finals of the FA Cup now.

And all credit to them for coming to wish us all the best after the game.

There's little doubt they missed Andy Gray on the night. I felt he was the biggest danger to us and it gave us a great psychological boost when we knew he wasn't playing.

I'll see you in two weeks when I'll be giving my views on our final with Manchester City. ■

Adventure

BOOKS MUST BE WON

NAPPER McCANN was fed up with being called names by the boys from St Gabriel's Primary just because his own school was small and didn't have a team.

So he called a meeting and began the glorious history of Red Row Stars.

His latest adventures can be read in a new book titled "Napper goes for Goal" and we're giving away 20 copies as prizes.

The book also contains coaching hints and diagrams, so as well as a fascinating story you might also pick up a few tips on how to play better, too.

All you have to do is identify the track-suited players in the picture on the right and name their present clubs.

Write your answers on a postcard or the back of an envelope and send it with your name, address and age to: Match Weekly (Napper book), 14 Holkham Road, Orton Southgate,

Don't miss this free-to-enter competition

Peterborough.

The first 20 all correct answers from the total postbag, will each receive a copy of the book which is written by Martin Waddell and published by Puffin.

Entries must reach us by first post, May 1. Winners will be published in our Special FA Cup Final issue on May 9.

LANGAN, RICHARDS and BATSON

— My top three says John Robertson (Forest)

FEW full-backs have relished the prospect of trying to halt Nottingham Forest and Scotland winger John Robertson over the past five seasons.

But some do better than others and John frankly admits that the three who cause him most problems are Birmingham's David Langan, Brendon Batson of West Brom and Pedro Richards of City neighbours Notts County.

In a recent 'Matchmaker' article John singled out Langan as his most difficult opponent and he told Match:

"He's made life difficult for me over the years, particularly when he was playing with Derby."

"Forest v Derby games are always competitive and I knew that Langan would never give me a second to settle on the ball."

"He's so quick that he tries to stop you getting to the ball in the first place — never mind getting the opportunity to take him on."

"And you have always got to be aware when playing against full-backs like him that they enjoy getting forward themselves."

"Pedro Richards is another like Langan who is very quick in the tackle, though he's now moved to the centre of Notts County's defence."

"Brendon Batson is a different type of player — but all the same I find him very difficult to get the better of in game."

"He doesn't really mark you particularly tight and while that always gives you scope to take him on he seems to read situations well and gets tackles in when they are most needed."

Right: David Langan of Birmingham — he's made life difficult for me over the years says John Robertson.

ENEMY NUMBER ONE

Far right: Graham Rix of Arsenal — he's got the skill to infuriate defenders, says Andy Blair.

Right: Coventry's Andy Blair.

... Two more top stars name the men they regard as their most difficult opponents.

GREEKS LOOK GOOD FOR SPAIN

GREECE could prove to be the surprise packet in Spain. Their recent 2-0 win in Luxembourg in front of a 5,000 crowd pushed them up to second, behind Italy, in group five. The goals came from Kouis (38min), and Mavros, a penalty (55min). That left the table like this:

	P	W	D	L	F	A	Pts
Italy	4	4	0	0	8	0	8
Greece	4	3	0	1	5	2	6
Yugoslavia	3	2	0	1	7	3	4
Denmark	4	1	0	3	5	5	2
Luxembourg	5	0	0	5	0	15	0

FRANZ Beckenbauer reckons a European team will win next year's World Cup in Spain. The Kaiser, who could play in his finals, said: "I'm certain a European team will win the World Cup next year. Argentina and Brazil will make a challenge but not enough to overcome the Europeans here."

BRILLIANT Dutch sweeper Ruud Krol was voted as the top foreigner in Italy. Second was Brazilian Roberto Falcao, third Herbert Prohaska and fourth Liam Brady. If Brady's team Juventus had started as well as they have played since Christmas it is thought the Irishman would have won the prize.

SPANISH World Cup organisers are aiming to keep down the prices on tickets for next year's competition. They say they are worried by the very poor attendances throughout Europe at the moment and by the poor crowds at last year's European Championships.

The worst moment of my life

BY PAUL MARINER

THE worst moment of my life.

That's the only way I can sum up our 1-0 FA Cup semi-final defeat by Manchester City at Villa Park.

It's hard to put into words the sick, empty feeling I had after the final whistle had blown.

Our Wembley dream had been shattered and I was totally dejected.

The dressing room was like a morgue as the players sat around in almost total silence just wondering what had happened.

I have heard other players talk about the personal disaster of a semi-final defeat and I have always thought it could never be that bad.

But I can tell you it's an experience I never want to go through again.

It's murder sitting in the dressing room hearing the winning side singing in the bath while you sit around reflecting on what might have been.

Even 48 hours after the match I was still getting over the disappointment.

It's a very sad moment for any

'It's murder sitting in the dressing room hearing the winning side singing in the bath.'

footballer, but the game is full of setbacks and one simply has to keep battling on.

Looking back on the tie, it was not only the result that was disappointing, it was the manner of our performance.

We are renowned for our brand of attractive football, but on the day we produced probably our worst performance of the season.

Manchester City must take a lot of credit. Manager John Bond produced some very shrewd tactics by cramping our style in midfield and, as a result, we didn't create much at all.

We looked dangerous at times from corners and free kicks with the aerial power of Kevin Beattie, Russell Osman and Terry Butcher, but as the game wore on I couldn't see either side scoring.

It might have been a different game had we taken some of our chances in the first twenty minutes.

Alan Brazil missed one opportunity which nine times out of ten he would have gobbled up.

I think we showed in the first half that the players were not feeling any tension, but at half time we changed tactics a little by pulling Eric Gates into midfield in a bid to get Arnold Muhren and Frans Thijssen more space on the flanks.

It showed promise for a time but the City defence was rock-like on the day and we got little joy.

I could see us coming back to Villa Park for a replay until Paul Power struck that brilliant winner.

There was no disputing the quality of Paul's match winning goal, but we felt that Terry Butcher was harshly penalised and that the free kick should have been awarded against Dave Bennett.

Still it's over now and we've just got to keep battling on.

The Match Weekly columnist relives the agony of FA Cup semi-final defeat.

LIVERPOOL striker Ian Rush this week looked back on a fairy-tale seven days that began with him collecting a League Cup winners medal before he'd even played a first team game at Anfield!

The League Cup Final victory over West Ham at Villa Park signalled the start of an incredible week for the 19-year-old reserve which ended in a European Cup semi-final against Bayern Munich.

Ian, a £300,000 close season signing from Chester, was plunged into Liverpool's most important week of the season even though he'd played only one first team game.

And he admitted: "It's been incredible — I still can't believe it's all happened."

The story book stuff started when Steve Heighway failed a late fitness test on the morning of the final replay and with regulars David Johnson and David Fairclough already FLASHBACK to July 5, 1980, when Ian Rush spoke to Match Weekly soon after signing for Liverpool ...

"... and ... I've worked hard at my game and I think it will be a lot harder now I'm at Liverpool. If I have played one game for the first team by the end of next season I will have done fairly well."

sidelined, Bob Paisley had little choice but to throw in his young reserve.

Ian impressed everybody at Villa Park with his pace and ball control and soon struck up a useful understanding with his Scottish international striking partner, Kenny Dalglish.

Two days after collecting his first ever winners medal, Anfield's famous Kop raised the roof when their latest hero made his home debut in a 3-0 win over Stoke.

"The reception I got was great — I'll never forget it," said Ian.

The might of crack West German champions Bayern Munich in the European Cup was Liverpool's next test and although Steve Heighway was fit, Bob Paisley had no hesitation in keeping faith with Ian.

FAIRY-TALE FOR RUSH

Liverpool's new discovery Ian Rush — looking back on an incredible seven days.

But he's realistic enough to know that his big test will come when England international David Johnson is fit to return to the attack.

"There's no way I can be classed as a first team regular. When the two David's are fit my test will come."

"I've enjoyed my spell in the team and it's made me determined to keep my place — you feel left out of things in the reserves."

"I didn't expect my chance to come so quickly, but now that it has I want to make the most of it," he added.

Ian's quick to pay tribute to the help he's had from the Liverpool players — especially Kenny Dalglish — during his first team spell.

"Kenny's a brilliant player and has done a lot to help me. He's made space for me and I reckon our partnership has worked quite well."

Even though Ian's spent all but a small part of his career at Anfield in the reserves, the Welsh international has no regrets about his move.

"It's a different world here. Everything is big time. I knew when I joined I'd have to wait for my chance."

Spotlight on Ipswich Town's comic strip hero . . .

KEVIN STEGGLES

THE STORY surrounding Kevin Steggles' senior baptism could have been written for a football hero in a boys comic.

One minute the 20-year-old Ipswich defender was in the reserves.

The next he was in the thick of a UEFA Cup quarter final clash with St Etienne policing one of Europe's top strikers in Dutch star Johnny Rep.

And if that wasn't enough, three days later he was making his First Division debut at one of the world's most famous soccer shrines, Manchester United's Old Trafford.

"Not a bad start, was it?" says the youngster, who was asked to forego his normal central defensive slot to cover at right back for injured skipper Mick Mills.

Kevin, who was actually born nearer to Norwich than their East Anglian rivals, is yet another product of the Ipswich youth policy that churns out footballers like a factory turns out cars.

He trained with Ipswich from the age of 12 and played more than 80 games in the reserves before getting his chance.

And what a chance, playing against one of Europe's top sides before a packed house at Portman Road with a place in the UEFA Cup semi-finals at stake.

"The fact that we had a 4-1 lead from the first leg obviously helped."

"The French side seemed just content to avoid another defeat," says Kevin.

"I didn't really feel nervous and had plenty of advice from colleagues — particularly Russell Osman who talked me through the match."

'It was a bit of a surprise
when the boss picked me . . .'

"I didn't see too much of Johnny Rep until the last few minutes when he produced a few telling runs. I was quite satisfied with my performance."

"I have played full-back a few times in the reserves so I didn't feel too strange, although I spend most of my time in the reserves playing at the centre of the defence."

"I must admit it was a bit of a surprise when the boss selected me for the St Etienne game."

Young Ipswich defender Kevin Steggles (right) in action against St-Etienne on his senior debut.

Then it was Manchester United for Kevin to begin his Football League career.

"Although we ended up losing 2-1 I felt more pleased with my performance than I did against St Etienne."

"It was obviously disappointing to see our long unbeaten run come to an end, but it was great to play at Old Trafford with such an incredible atmosphere."

Kevin appreciates that he was only keeping the shirt warm for England's Mick Mills.

"I know I'm only a stop-gap, but I'm quite happy just to be involved with a successful club," explains Kevin.

TERFACE TALK

Cloughie

MY enjoyment of the League Cup Final replay was marred by Nottingham Forest manager Brian Clough's incredible attack on Jimmy Case of Liverpool.

Just before the game against West Ham began, Clough accused the Liverpool player of "kicking opponents for four years."

This was a most unprofessional and unfair comment from a man who is supposed to be an authority in the game.

I wish someone would tell Cloughie to shut up once and for all — we're all sick and tired of him!

Carmel Morgan, Eynsham, Oxford.

Right: Liverpool's Jimmy Case — under attack from Brian Clough.

Unfair in Case

Ball's mistake

ALAN BALL'S return to Southampton was a big mistake.

He is supposed to have done great things since his return to The Dell, but after watching his performance against Aston Villa I reckon he should hang up his boots.

All he did was make mistakes and he had to be substituted in the end. At one point he almost gave away a goal!

Julian Escott (13), Bournemouth, Dorset

Oops!

INTERNATIONALS are getting younger every day.

Just look at the age of this international side. The goof was spotted by Nick Kenton of Attenborough, Beeston, Notts.

Don't forget to send in any goof you spot. The address is: Golden Goof, Match Weekly, Midgate House, Midgate, Peterborough.

But although 70,000 fans paid £395,000 to see his side defeat Switzerland by a narrow margin, fewer than 8,000 combined to watch the Under 2 and B matches.

Stewart for England!

I WISH Ron Greenwood would take note of the current team in form, West Ham.

I know he's picked Trevor Brooking and Alan Devonshire in past England sides, but I reckon he should take a look at Ray Stewart and Geoff Pike.

Stewart is a full-back with attacking flair and should be given an international chance.

As for Pike, he's full of running and will never let you down.

By the way, I reckon Paul Stratton's predictions are rubbish — you should give the job to me!

D. Barker, Old Windsor, Berks.

● AT LEAST Paul Stratton knows that Ray Stewart is a Scotsman! You're sent off for not getting your facts right.

I'M Anthony Hawkswell and I'm in charge of the 'Outraged' column.

I'll stand no nonsense . . . any back-chat and I'll send you off!

I'll be giving marching orders to the writer of the most outrageous letter of the week and booking others who make me really angry.

And just to make it more interesting I'll pay £5 to the person I send off and £2 to each one I book.

But be warned . . . I'm the ref and my decision stands.

To Hoddle and Robson

Dave Currie, Barrowford, Nelson, Lancs.

● HODDLE and Robson were two of the few bright chinks in an otherwise depressing England performance.

They've WORLD class potential and need the experience of playing to prove it.

IT'S a waste of time giving players a number on their backs because half the time they play out of position.

It's very confusing for the spectator. I reckon a better idea would be to give them letters on their backs.

This is how it would work: G-goalkeeper; D-defender;

M-midfielder; F-forward; V-versatile (substitute).

This would put some order back into the game.

Andrew Parker (10), Cheam, Surrey.

● YOU'RE letter is B-for BOOKED! What a silly idea.

The numbers on the shirts help you identify the player — not necessarily the position he plays.

The numbers game

Trevor Allen, Abingdon,

Watch those throw-in cheats

REFEREES should be more strict and make players take throw-ins from where the ball went out of play.

Players always walk four or five yards forward before they eventually throw-in.

It could make a big difference to the outcome of a game if stealing a few yards results in a goal.

M. Purefoy (13), Weybridge, Surrey.

Cup casualty

IT'S a pity the Anglo-Scottish Cup is being wiped off the football calendar.

I went to the second leg of the final between Chesterfield and Notts County and thoroughly enjoyed the game — it was far from boring.

The competition hasn't done the finalists any harm at all — Notts County and Chesterfield are still in their respective promotion hunts.

Andrew Young, Mapperley Park, Notts.

TV success

I'M GLAD the League Cup Final replay was shown live on television — it was a thoroughly enjoyable match.

I think every big occasion should be televised as it happens because not everyone wants to see the important games can get tickets to go.

The League Cup has proved that it's just as good as the FA Cup.

BARNESLEY F.C.
OAKWELL GROUND, BARNESLEY

WEST Brom's powerful striker Cyrille Regis is drawn by Deborah Hall of Wednesbury, West Midlands. "He's a consistent goalscorer," says Deborah.

Newport's heart of Oakes

IF Lady Luck had been a little kinder Newport County would this month have been striving for a place in the European Cup Winners' Cup Final.

Instead the tiny Welsh club, so close to embarrassing crack East German side Carl Zeiss Jena in the quarter finals, are facing a more desperate battle . . . Third Division survival.

And to add salt to the wounds, their hopes of another European adventure next season were dashed in the Welsh Cup semi-finals by Hereford, the bottom club in the Football League.

It's an amazing contrast for Len Ashurst's team and one which skipper and key defender Keith Oakes finds difficult to understand.

"We undoubtedly raised our game for the two matches against the East Germans, but Newport skipper Keith Oakes — still nurses an ambition to play in the First Division.

"in the League we have been unable to find any real consistency, and consequently have been sucked into the relegation fight," says Keith, last month's 'Match Weekly' Third Division 'Matchman of the Month'.

"After getting promotion last season we were hopeful of consolidating ourselves in Division Three, but we made a bad start and have been dropping too many points at home for comfort."

Keith, bought for a bargain £15,000 from Peterborough nearly three years ago, still nurses an ambition to play in the First Division.

"Several clubs have been reported to be interested in me but nothing has happened. The manager has said he would let me go if he received the right offer," explains Keith, who is one of the country's top scoring defenders with 29 goals in the last three seasons.

"I'm happy at Newport but it is the ambition of every player to play in the First Division."

"I'm quite satisfied with my form this season and probably I'm playing my best football."

"I'll just keep my fingers crossed that one day my ambition will be realised."

MATCH MEETS DONCASTER'S SNODINS

Oh brother!

THERE'S a distinct flavour of brotherly love in the Doncaster Rovers team battling for promotion from the Fourth Division.

Billy Bremner's side, chasing a Third Division place after a ten-year absence, has the Snodin brothers making a significant contribution to the club's fortunes.

Glynn, the 21-year-old left back, has been in the side for the past two seasons, but this term he has been joined on a regular basis by 17-year-old brother Ian, an England youth international midfield player.

Glynn joined Doncaster five years ago when Stan Anderson, then the manager, saw him playing for a local youth side.

From that moment Ian's heart was set on joining his brother at Belle Vue — even though the family home was in Rotherham.

His chance came two years ago when, after playing in the youth side, he was signed as an apprentice.

This is how the brothers see Doncaster's prospects and their own careers . . .

MATCH WEEKLY: What has been the influence of Billy Bremner on both you personally and the team?

GLYNN: From my own point of view he has encouraged me to be positive and he has urged the players to battle for each other and that has helped bring us success.

IAN: He has been great to me as the baby of the side because he encourages me all the time. He often has me back in the afternoons for special training and I learn a lot from him.

M.W.: What are your ambitions?

GLYNN: Like every young player in the lower divisions, I want to play in the First Division and perhaps for my country. But my immediate aim is to help Doncaster into a higher standard of football.

IAN: Having played for England youths it is my hope that one day I will play at senior level. Like Glynn, I want to play in the First Division.

MW: Is it strange having a brother in the same side?

GLYNN: Not really because when I'm playing I regard him as just another team mate. I just let him get on with his job, but off the park we act as brothers and are always talking about football.

IAN: With Glynn playing left back and me on the right hand side of midfield we don't come into contact very often. But when I go up to his house all the talk is about Doncaster.

MW: How do you rate your brother?

GLYNN: He's a very skilful midfield player who is not afraid to put his foot on the ball even though he's only 17. With any luck he should go a long way in the game.

IAN: I think Glynn is the best left back in the Fourth Division, particularly from an attacking viewpoint.

TAKE THAT, SAINTS!

GOLDEN GOAL

Frank McGarvey (Celtic) v St Mirren, Scottish Premier Division, Parkhead, Glasgow, March 14, 1980.

FRANK McGARVEY will long remember his Golden Goal, not only because it was a rare shot from outside the box, but also because it helped him land a hat-trick against his former club in 7-0 rampage.

"I was due a good break against the Saints," said Frank. "I got sent off against them earlier in the season!"

"I received the ball from Mark Reid about 40 yards out and turned inside Ally Beckett. I almost fell in the next tackle, but although I recovered with the ball I didn't have enough energy to take it further and decided to have a shot."

"Luckily the ball took a kind wee bobble for me and it beat Bobby Thomson in the top corner and that's really pleasing to beat Scotland's No. 2 goalkeeper."

For Frank, who returned to Scotland following a big-money move to Liverpool in which he failed to win a first team place, it was his second hat-trick of the season, having knocked three past Hungarians Diosgyori Miskolc in the European Cup Winners Cup.

"It's rare for me to score from far out. . . . six yards is my best distance," he added.

TWO Match Weekly readers enjoyed the time of their lives when they were invited to meet West Brom and England B international Brendon Batson.

Nigel Wall of Barry, Glamorgan, and Dave Fryer of Dudley, West Midlands, met their favourite player at West Brom's Hawthorns ground.

Both were winners of a Match Weekly competition to pick an England team and both chose to meet the talented right back as their prize.

Brendon met the pair at the Hawthorns and after lunch at a nearby hotel took them on a tour of the First Division ground.

Our photographer Duncan Cubitt was on hand to capture the memorable day for our two readers . . .

BRENDON BATSON

The cow bell was presented to the club by crack Yugoslav team Hajduk Split before a European competition.

SHEFFIELD WEDNESDAY Programme guide

SHEFFIELD Wednesday's match day programme — 'The Owl' — has plenty to hoot about.

The famous Yorkshire club is challenging for First Division status after 11 years in the wilderness and manager Jack Charlton has instilled new confidence in the club.

The bright and breezy programme reflects the current optimism.

We looked at the magazines for the games against Bristol Rovers and Shrewsbury and both maintained a consistently high standard.

For 30p you get 30 pages and it was all about Sheffield Wednesday — there was no football insert.

There were plenty of action pictures and each programme had an interesting in-depth feature on a Wednesday player.

Apart from the front cover picture there was no other colour in the issue, but this was more than made up for by the action photographs.

There was a regular look back over the club's history and the usual piece by the manager, introduction to the visitors and a facts and figures page.

Each issue carried a report of the team's last game and also reported from the reserves and other matches.

If Sheffield Wednesday do get promoted they won't have to alter their programme — it's already First Division material.

Star rating guide:

Spurs' Wembley wonders

SPURS are back at Wembley — and no one can deny them the right to meet Manchester City at Wembley on May 9 after their super show against cup specialists Wolves in last week's semi-final replay at Highbury.

Two goals from razor-sharp Garth Crooks and a left foot thunderbolt from Argentinian ace Ricky Villa finished the job that Spurs came so close to completing in the first incident-packed game at Hillsborough, Sheffield.

The agony of seeing victory snatched away by a Willie Carr penalty in the last minute of normal time turned to ecstasy as Spurs blasted their way into their first FA Cup Final since 1967 when they beat Chelsea 2-1.

'Now Stoke can win a major trophy'

AFTER eleven years with Stoke City, defender Alan Dodd is still waiting to fulfil his ambition of winning a medal.

When Stoke won their last major honour — the 1972 League Cup at Wembley — the 27-year-old central defender was just on the threshold of senior football with his home town club.

But the former England Under-23 international, who stood on the Victoria Ground terraces as a youngster, believes his dream may well come true before he hangs up his boots.

"I'm quite optimistic about the future at Stoke and that's why I am content to see out my career here," says Alan, who has made almost 400 League appearances for the club he joined from school.

"We are slowly but surely making progress and I believe we have enough talent in the club to win a major trophy within the next two or three years.

"I suppose the highspot of my time at Stoke so far would be when we won the League Cup, even though I was in the reserves.

"It was also nice to get promotion to the First Division in 1979, just a couple of years after being relegated.

"But I would love to win a medal with the club that has been virtually my whole life."

But Alan admitted that two seasons ago he was on the brink of seeking a move.

"With Mick Doyle and Denis Smith in the heart of the defence I had little opportunity at the time to play in what I thought was my best position.

"Consequently, I was asked to play in other roles.

"Now I have achieved a regular place in the defence I am content.

"There have been times when I have been envious at the money other players make from being transferred, and it would be nice if there were greater financial rewards to encourage more players to remain loyal."

TOO often it's the big money transfer players who grab the headlines. What about those players who have remained loyal to one club throughout their careers?

Why have they stayed with their first League club? Have they ever had the chance to move?

What are their happiest memories . . . and their hopes? Melvyn Beck has been finding out . . .

ONE CLUB MEN

Still hungry for success

EDDIE Gray won almost every major honour with Leeds United during the halcyon days of the late sixties and early seventies.

But the long-serving Scot is still hungry for more success.

During those champagne days under Don Revie, Leeds emerged as one of Europe's top clubs with two League championships, F.A. League and Fairs Cup successes.

But it's seven years since the Yorkshire club tasted glory and Eddie thinks that's too long.

"I would like to see the club win at least another major honour while I'm still playing," says the Scottish midfield player turned full back.

"I've got another two years of my contract to run after this season and I hope that in those two seasons we shall get some more success at Elland Road."

"Allan Clarke is doing a fine job and I think there are signs that the club could become a force again in the First Division."

"I know we have had a few barren years, but I've never had any regrets about staying with Leeds throughout my career."

It was Leeds' first Championship success in 1968-69 which sticks out in Eddie's memory.

EDDIE GRAY

Still hungry for success

"We needed a result at Anfield to win the title and we got a draw plus a great ovation from the Kop. It was an unforgettable moment."

But on the other side of the coin was the nightmare of the shock FA Cup Final defeat by Sunderland in 1973.

"That was the real low spot of my career, particularly as I had such a terrible match that day. It was a dreadful experience."

As for the future, Eddie wants to keep playing as long as possible: "When the day comes for me to retire then I hope to stay in the game."
